

To Whom It May Concern.

Sometimes you hire a contractor and they are solely there to "just do their job". They get it done but the work is perfunctory. Not with Victor DiPilato...He is a caring and concerned contractor. It was not easy being an absentee owner...but Victor stood in for us and kept in close phone and e-mail contact to give us a daily update of the progress of the renovation. He is honest as the day is long...creative...in his design ideas...employing competent trades' people and going far beyond the call of duty. He never hesitated to make suggestions and because of the built up confidence I had in him, I followed his advice which always turned out to be a positive. I feel that the relationship did not stop when the work was completed and we will be able to call him in the future if we need any additional assistance. I (we) recommend Victor wholeheartedly and without hesitation.
